Tyler's Tune

A long time ago people would play games for fun like basketball or baseball. Eventually, some players became really good. So good, in fact, that people started paying to watch other people play the game that they loved. These people became spectators to something that they used to participate. There is a danger here for church goes as well. A long time ago, early Christians would gather together in house churches and they would all be actively worshipping God. They would pray, sing, read the Bible, and invest in each other as a community. Today there is a danger to think there are professional worshippers and that we come and spectate them worshipping each week. That's not what this Sunday is about or any Sunday for that matter. We come together as broken, lost, and sinful people in need of a Savior to participate in worship together.

Worship and Media Pastor
